

From: Francis Uy

Subject: Public Funding: Public Access

Date: January 12, 2012 10:55:27 AM EST

To: publicaccess@ostp.gov

Allowing the results of federally funded research to be held in private is antithetical to both scientific progress and the public good. If an organization wants to keep their data hidden behind a paywall, then they should pay for the research from their own pocket. If our tax money is spent on science, then that science should belong to the public.

-Francis Uy
Catonsville, MD