It doesn't seem so. I'm being asked if I'm confident no one in CD or at WFO reviewed it before it was filed. (We hadn't seen it in OGC; I only got this copy after reaching out to DOJ for a draft...and they sent me this final, as filed, version.)

[REDACTED] expressed surprise this afternoon when I said to him that I understood the motion was being filed to keep the affidavit sealed. (He said WFO supported release; I said that would be difficult since, "as you know," DOJ is filing a motion to keep it sealed; he said "no, I didn't know that.") I likewise infer that CD didn't review it, because they were debating this afternoon whether to support WFO/Tony's position on release or whether to propose keeping it sealed.

Subject: Govt response to motions to unseal

Colleagues,

In the event you do not already have it, please find attached the government's response to the motions to unseal. As you will see, the government argues herein to keep the SW affidavit sealed.
